Summer Resorts.

The month in which the crowd of pleasure-seekers congregates at the summer retreats is about to begin. July is the period when fashion opens her courts and finery and gaiety there appear in full feather. July sceptical and parsimonious would now keeps them agoing with spirit. We add to our list of admirable places for both the invalid and pleasure-seeker to hunt for relief and to chase pleasure with her giddy feet.

THE BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS .- These waters, in Mecklenburg county, Virginia, have won a great fame with remarkable rapidity. They are found to have extraordinary virtue in cases known to be obthe digestive organs. They have worked healing, almost miraculous, in diseases of the kidney and liver, and have given rest and relief to many poor sufferers who had been long victims to resultant nervousness and prostration. The Lithia is prescribed by many physicians, and from all directions come so many orders that the Spring has become somewhat ubiquitous, its water is so distributed through the land. Still a large and cheerful conmany is at this season always about the saloons of the Lithia, and Colonel Goode, through his manager and agents, is busily employed in catering to their pleasure and comfort. The Lithia, in | in charge of the ambulance, and are altera medical and social respect, is become a pool of great value.

WEDNESDAY MORNING. JUNE 27, 1877. VOL. LI. RICHMOND, VA.,

LOCAL MATTERS.

24th of March, 1875, the Committee for the Relief of the Poor, of the City Council, see ing the need of an addition to our public charities in the shape of an ambulance to be used upon the street in cases of accident sudden sickness, &c., to persons who might nced prompt medical or surgical attention, or be unable to reach their homes without such assistance, inaugurated a plan which has been in successful operation for over two years. The "city ambulance" has become widely known, and its efficiency has continued to increase from day to day, and it s now recognized as a fixed institution of the city. Its appearance upon the streets is the signal for vehicles of every description to give it the right-of-way on its mission of charity; and if we were called upon to record the many cases in which it has rendered material aid, and probably been the means of saving life, it would be necessary to extend this notice over several columns. The efficiency of the ambulance corps was fully tested, and the wise forethought of the committee practically illustrated, during the unprecedented "heated term" of last summer, when the human and brute creation suffered alike under the prostrating effects of the intense heat. But its service and usefulness has not been confined to the summer season alone. It has done good alike during the rigors of winter, and in fact at all seasons; and the most sets style and festivity afoot and August hesitate to pronounce in any manner against it.

Being impressed with the importance, and still further necessity, of enlarging this public charity, the committee have recently added to its effectiveness by the purchase of a new and beautiful ambulance, the superior of which cannot be found in any city in the Union. It was built by Mr. R. H. Bosher, the well-known carriage manufacturer of this city, at a cost of about $350, complete, and when the amount of work done and beautiful finish of the vehicle is constinate relating to functional derangement of | sidered, these figures may be regarded as remarkably low. The ornamental painting was done by Mr. J. T. Chappell, as a free contribution on his part to this noble charity, and the work reflects great credit upon him as an artist. The new ambulance is of light and substantial construction, and is supplied with stretcher-cot, surgical instruments, and every other necessary appliance for the relief of persons needing its services. It weighs, when ready for service, 1,080 pounds, and when in motion runs with remarkable ease and smoothness-a great desideratum in the transportation of patients. It made its first appearance on the streets yesterday and attracted much attention. Drs. W. P. Nicholson and R. T. Styll are nately on duty day and night, the whole being under the control of Captain Charles P. Bigger, Superintendent of the Almshousethe model institution of the city-assisted by Captain W. J. Epps, who has charge of

GENERAL FITZ. LEE SERENADED-HIS SPEECH OF THANKS-THE TALIAFERRO AND HOLLIDAY MEETINGS LAST NIGHT-MEETINGS TO TAKE PLACE THIS EVE-NING-THE PRIMARY VOTING-PLACES-FEATURES OF THE PLAN-LAST YEAR'S PRIMARY.

GENERAL FITZHUGH LEE. At 9 o'clock last night the "Lee Club," with many others participating, formed in procession in front of their headquarters on Main street, and, preceded by Kessnich's band, marched down to the Exchange Hotel, where they were received with a ringing cheer from the large crowd assembled there, and the gun stationed on Council Chamber Hill fired a salute of welcome.

In spite of the threatened storm, the dropping rain, and muttering thunder, the windows and porches of the hotel were filled, and the crowd cheered enthusiastically at each piece the band performed, beginning with the inspiring refrain "The Skidmore Guards." At the conclusion of the serenade General Lee appeared on the northern porch of the old Exchange, and was introduced by Captain R. E. Blankenship in a few appropriate words, Mr. Pace, the president of the Club, being prevented from appearing by his late accident.

The General said that he answered a call from numerous friends in Richmond because it would be discourtesy to decline, and quoted the beautiful lines of Burns to express his pleasure at such a warm and flattering welcome from kind friends and old comrades. His voice is musical and resonant, and his enunciation peculiarly fine. He briefly referred to his career as an officer in the "old army," the change from a soldier to a farmer after the war, and the still more startling one from a plain farmer to a political candidate, then humorously quoted Max. Adeler's satire, to the effect hat a candidate should enumerate all his vices to prevent his opponents from using them as a handle, &c.

Then, enumerating the great Virginians erson, Marshall, and Mason-he said it only required him to call the magic name of Stonewall Jackson to show that it was the same Virginia to-day in talent and character. After more than a decade of oppression we are at last free to follow the arts of peace, and develop the resources of nature and our availabilities for commerce and

On motion of Mr. McCoull it was ordered that a mass-meeting of the friends of Colonel Holliday be beld to-night (Wednesday) at Monticello Hall, and that a committee of three be appointed to invite speakers. Messrs. Neil McCoull, Henry G. Cannon, and Thomas N. Page were appointed on the committee.

GENERAL W. B. TALIAFERRO. The friends af General W. B. Taliaferro neld a meeting at New Market Hall last night, and in spite of the storm the hall was well filled with good citizens. General P. T. Moore cailed the meeting to order, and General Joseph R. Anderson was elected permanent chairman. Brief addresses were delivered by General Anderson, Colonel John B. Cary, Charles U. Williams, Esq., and William Lovenstein, Esq. All the speakers expressed confidence in General Taliaferro's chances, and thought that he would receive a very large vote here. After appointing a committee to act in each ward on Thursday the meeting adjourned. GENERAL WILLIAM MAHONE.

At corner of Cary and Laurel streets at 8:15 to-night the friends of General William Mahone will be addressed by several speakers. A meeting of the Mahone committee will be held at 916 Main street this evening

PRIMARY VOTING-PLACES. The following are the primary-election voting-places: Marshall Ward .- Club House, Marshall street between Twenty-sixth and Twentyseventh.

Jefferson Ward .- Old Market Hall. Madison Ward .- Bank street between Ninth and Tenth. Monroe Ward .- Twyman's shop, 207 east

Grace, between Second and Third streets. Clay Ward.-Westham House. Jackson Ward .- First precinct, Beveridge's storehouse, Brook avenue; Second, Morris Griffin's, Second and Duval; Third, corner Seventeenth and Carrington streets.

FEATURES OF THE PLAN. The system of voting to be observed tomorrow is exactly the same as that which was in vogue here before the war. Endorse your ticket. Your name and the name of the person voted for will be cried out by the judge of election, and then the vote will be recorded. The ballot-box is, of course, not used. There is only one voting-precinct in each Marshall, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, and Clay Wards. In Jackson Ward there are three. See list above. None but white Conservatives who are qualified voters, "or will be before the November election," will be allowed to vote to-morrow. The poll-tax receipt will not be required at the primary. If you have moved, for instance, from Monroe Ward to Clay Ward since last revision of registration, which was in November, vote in Monroe Ward. In case any candidate receives a majority of all the votes cast in the city he will be entitled to all the delegates (seventy). Otherwise the number of delegates each ward is entitled to is to be apportioned "equitably"

[For the Dispatch.] Change of the Plan by the City Committee.

A great many people had made up their minds to vote for A in order to defeat B, although they preferred C. Under the former plan of counting the vote such a determination may have been wise, but now such a course is not necessary, because every vote will tell. In a ward having 1,500 votes the result may be that each of the five candidates may get 300 votes, and thus have three delegates in the Convention; and so that if A gets 300 votes and C gets 300 votes it will tell against B just as much as if A got 600 or C got 600.

Then, let every man vote for his choice. If he wants to beat B, let him vote for C, whom he prefers, which will accomplish his object, although he may think A will get VOTER. more votes than C.

Editors Dispatch: In your paper of yesterday appeared an article giving an extract from a letter of General Taliaferro to a gentleman of this city, in which he expresses his disinclination even to seem to be guilty of the indelicacy of a private and personal canvass for the nomination. This is entirely in keeping with the whole life and conduct of this modest, brave, and high-toned gentleman, and gives another evidence of his fitness to be trusted and honored by the | son. people of his native State. 'No man ever loved his people better or served them with more fidelity. In the councils of the State of the olden time-Washington, Henry, Jef- and on the tented field his best energies have been given to his country. He has now reached the prime of life, and his experience will enable him to conduct wisely the business of the Executive department of the State. He is a man of broad and expansive views, and will be Governor of the whole State, and not of any section or locality. Nor has he any prejudices against the city of Richmond. And while the people of every portion of the State may safely trust him, the people of Richmond city may The General concluded by assuring his rely upon it that they will find in him as Govfriends that their support, independent of ernor the same true friend that they have M. A Word or Two for Daniel.

To the Editors of the Dispatch: The temper of this canvass has been undisturbed save by one single cry of Mahone and anti-Mahone. In the Valley, Holliday's strength appears to be solidly against Ma-An enthusiastic meeting of the friends of hone, and hence the Whig's attacks on the ized force anywhere. Taliaferro's veterans snows of many winters on their heads and beards, and move with the solemnity and slowness appropriate to their age and digcommittee of two from each ward, and a nity. Mahone's disciplined legions are contending against fearful odds in Southampton and Norfolk and all the Southside, and winning their way with loss heavier than Grant's to James river. But in the front of the fight, like the white plume of Henry of Navarre, floats the flag of Daniel. Around im are gathered the young blood of the

The embodiment of chivalry-himself the Bayard of Virginia-his claim is heard, and his steel flashes along the whole from line. The solid burghers of Danville march steadily to his support; "the Campbells are coming"; from the headwaters of the James, Patrick, and Henry, and Pittsylvania, and Halifax, and all the counties of Cabell's district, move up; Nelson, and Amherst, and Cumberland, and Ran. Tucker's troops wheel into line; from the Southwest, in Craig and Botetourt; from Tidewater, in Essex, and Westmoreland, and King and Queen; from Piedmont, in Rappahannock, and Culpeper, and Orange, and Albemarie, the slogan is sounding and the clans are assembling. Daniel comes to Richmond leading all the host. Will not Richmond unite to give him her hearty, concentrated support? Why waste votes on Holliday, or Taliaferro, or Fitz. Lee here? They may get a few votes and a few delegates from this city, but these votes will do them no good. Every one can see that Holliday has no first-choice strength here. His friends are first-class but few. Therefore he will get no delegate from Richmond in all probablity because his votes being scattered through six wards he will not get enough in any one ward to entitle him to a delegate. It is equally clear that Fitz. Lee and Taliaferro are not in the race at all until Daniel, Holliday, and Mahone are all defeated. If all three should fail of nomination, then these others stand some show. But for Richmond to send Lee or Taliaferro delegates will do them no good, and will prevent their getting votes as second choice which they otherwise would get. It is clear, therefore, that all our votes ought to be concentrated on Daniel. He is by common consent, strongest in the State and in the city. If be carries the city, as he is reasonably certain of doing, his friends will see that Lee and Taliaferro are fairly represented; in the delegation; and they will do this without any bargain or combination with either Lee or Taliaferro men. They will not appoint Mahone men at al under any circumstances. They will see that the delegation is Daniel, Lee, Taliaferro, and a proper regard for Holliday. The Daniel men of Richmond are friends of all these candidates, and they call upon the friends of all to unite upon Daniel, and carry the city solid for him. HARD SENSE.

Another Word for General Fitz. Lee. Messrs. Editors,-We are very much gratified that our people are awakening to their true interests in the gubernatorial canvass, and are flocking to the standard of General Fitz. Lee. In the past few days the friends of General Lee have developed such remarkable strength for their candidate as to leave no doubt of the fact that he is the real choice of the unbiassed and unprejudiced voters of our city. In looking over the field our citizens have discovered that in this candidate for their suffrages they have a gentleman upon whom all can centre. Of a family distinguished for every virtue that ennobles our race, we may be sure that he, at least, has no private axe to grind. With a military record of resplendent glory, and a devotion to the material interests of this State since the war, which is a distinguishing characteristic of this unselfish and noble family, he has bent the report of the recent examinations. The energies of his enthusiastic nature to the past scholastic year has been a prosperous healing of the asperities of war and the one both with the white and colored schools. building up of our waste places by the immigration of settlers from other States.
